WEIGHT OF Maysville's Mail.

BEGINNING February 17th and ending March 22d, the mails received and dispatched by the Maysville Postoffice by the Chesapeake and Ohio and Kentucky Central roads were weighed by order of the Postoffice Department, in order to strike an average on which to base the contract with these roads for carrying the mails for four years from July 1st, 1892. The totals received from and delivered to these roads are—

KENTUCKY CENTRAL 16,432 pounds
CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO 39,472 pounds
TOTAL 55,904 pounds

While this does not include a very large amount of mail that is sent from this office and taken from it by the various omnibus lines, it will give the reader a pretty good idea of the volume of business handled by the Maysville Postoffice.

They Did It Up Handsome.

L. B. JACKSON was up about a year ago, Chief Engineer of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, with headquarters at Cincinnati, and was known by many in Maysville. He was something of a high flyer, and supposed to be well up in tricks, and it did not surprise to those who knew him how he got his position. He was a graduate of the University of Michigan, and had recently been taken in to the tune of $10,000 by a trio of sharpers at the Hotel Richelieu in Chicago. Jackson is a large, fine looking fellow, with flowing English side whiskers. But he was not only the victim of the shrewd trio, who had at their head Manager Carson of the Richelieu, since discharged by the proprietor, "Cardinal" H. V. Bemis, upon his crookedness.

U. S. SENATORS McCONNELL of Idaho; WOLCOFT of Colorado; Squires of Washington; Mr. ALBERT WEBER of New York, and C. N. YALE, residing at Hotel Brunswick, New York, and W. C. MURPHY, the wealthy stock-raiser of Montana, are on the list of names who have contributed liberally to the pot of something like $400,000 the sharpers are said to have found in Morehead.

Causes a Distracting State of Affairs in Venezuela.

PRESIDENT PALACIO Likely to Fall by the Hand of an Assassin.

THE INSURGENTS Hourly Gaining Strength—Every One of the States Are in Open Revolt, and Hardly a Prominent Military Man Sides With Palacio.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The steamship Venezuela, of the Red Line, which arrived at this port from LaGuayra, reached yesterday among friends Julio de Domingo, of Caracas, as an interview gives more facts than have hitherto reached the north of the Venezuelan situation. At the Hotel Martin he accorded a reporter an interview upon the condition of things in Venezuela. He characterized himself as "in a very bad way" and going rapidly from bad to worse.

"I left Caracas," said he, "on March 30, when the government was in a really tight fix. Every one of the states was in rebellion, and a military man of prominence sided with Palacio. Over 500 journalists and public men were imprisoned, trade was dead, and the finances of the country were simply wrecked. The leaders of Venezuela and Caracas with regard to Pedro Monagas, the president that Palacio had appointed, were large landholders by which large gold loans are to be secured to the Venezuelan merchants, who are at a standstill, absolutely afraid to do business with the government forces.

For years the citizens of Venezuela have been clamoring for a five-cent fare between those places and Cincinnati, and their wishes are to be realized.

GEORGE WOODS of Carlisle is announced as a candidate for Circuit Judge of the Twenty-first District, composed of Pendleton, Harrison, Robertson, Bath and Nicholas counties. His only opponent, so far, is C. W. Goodpaster of Owingsville.

COLUMBUS, L.

Entire Country Asked to Participate on Oct. 12 in the Recognition of the Four Hundredth Anniversary of the Discovery.

CINCINNATI, April 6.—President Bonney, of the world's congress auxiliary of the Columbian exposition, has issued an address to the entire country to participate on Oct. 12 in the recognition of the discovery of America.

The address says that the day of the discovery of America should be celebrated everywhere in America, and makes the further suggestion that this universal celebration be systematic, permanent and a national holiday.

The address accordingly proposes that the most representative institution—the public school—be everywhere the center of the celebration.

TRIUMPH OF LAW OVER TRUSTS.

The dissolution of the Standard Oil trust is an event of National significance.

It shows, if the statement of the company's counsel is to be credited, that the greatest trust the country has known has at last bowed to the majesty of the law and the will of the people. Here are reported words of Mr. DODD, the lawyer on whom the Standard has relied to defend it against the power of the courts and legislatures:

No, we have no intention of reorganizing the trust; our purpose is to dissolve, not reorganize. The decision has been reached, in part, by the decision made against the trust in Ohio, but more largely by the opposition and legislation against trusts of oil in different states of the Union, which has been so general and so strong. The decision in Ohio was the first one given against our true deed in any state. Of course it only affected the trust in that state.

The Standard Oil Company, says The New York Herald, is the pioneer of American trusts. It is the most wealthy, the most powerful one that has appeared in this country. Its wealth is measured by untold millions. Among its members are hundred millionaires. When court after court had condemned trust combinations, when legislature after legislature and the Congress of the United States had passed laws against them, the great oil monopoly moved serenely in spite of anti-trust decisions and enactments. Its surrender at last to the inevitable marks a triumph of the power of the state over one of the greatest evils that have menaced the people in recent years.

We do not say that the Standard Oil is the last of the trusts in this country. Others remain. But if the oldest and most powerful trust that ever flourished has been made to recognize the supremacy of the law, what hope can weaker unities have of holding out against the might of courts and legislatures by the will of the people?

His triumph of the law is a matter of general congratulation. Trusts beyond the reach of court or legislature are a national evil. Unchecked they would hold the power to form in every branch of trade and industry, business and labor, monopolies that would stifle competition and subject the masses to oppressive burdens. They seek to raise prices and lower wages, to restrict production and curtail employment, to enrich trust barons and impoverish wage earners. A state or nation powerless to check such abuses is helpless to guard the vital interests and inalienable rights of its people.

We do not, of course, mean to say that the millennium has come, that trusts have wholly disappeared and that no further abuses of this kind are to be expected. We simply point out that the supremacy of the law has been established. This is a great gain when it is considered that for years trusts have insisted that there was no power in the legislatures or courts to reach them, and stoutly opposed all attempts to enforce the law against their operations.

When this contest with the people is abandoned by the most powerful of all trusts the dawn of an era is seen full of promise for the people. Given the power to deal with an evil and the evil is within control.

CIRCUIT JUDGE.

The office of Circuit Judge in this Judicial District, it appears, is going a begging in the Democratic fold, when its small timber have a regular walk over for the nomination to that important and honorable position.

We serve notice upon our Democratic friends that the people of this District won't put up with just anybody that wants the office and its emoluments, and when the unfeeling Democracy will willingly nominate! If you won't run a candidate who will fill the bill, we can give you a "pointer" to a party that will!

THE Democrats of the Tenth District have nominated JOSEPH M. KENDALL as their candidate for Congress, to succeed his father, the late J. W. KENDALL.

HON. JOHN P. MCCARTNEY of Flemingsburg is spoken of as a candidate for Congress. JOHN would make it mighty interesting for the other fellow, even in this kid-shaped Democratic district.

A DEMOCRATIC Congress is responsible for the passage of the Chinese exclusion bill and the violation of our treaty obligations with a friendly power.

It may dawn upon the country one of these fine days in the early springtime that General GRANT was right when he said the Democrats could always be relied upon to make a blunder. The measure is too exclusive—or inclusive.

At Macclesfield, England, the average weekly wages of silk weavers are 13 shillings, or $3 16. At Paterson, N. J., United States, the average weekly wages of broad-silk weavers are $2 a day, or $12 a week, and wages earned by ribbon weavers are $3 a day, or $18 a week. That is, American silk weavers earn from 3 4-5 to 6 times as much per week as silk weavers earn in England. At Macclesfield wages have fallen 30 per cent since 1860; in the United States wages have been steadily advancing and are higher now than they ever were before. The English silk industry, which in 1860 gave employment and livelihood to 1,000,000 people, to-day supports only 200,000 people. The number of workmen employed by the 700 American silk mills is greater, and the product is larger and more valuable, than at any time previous in the history of the silk industry of the United States. These facts illustrate the difference between the conditions existing in a Free-trade country and those in a Protected country. And yet there is a party in the United States that wants to destroy the system under which we have enjoyed the most prosperous years of our history, and give us in exchange the antiquated system of British Free-trade.

A SUPPOSED deposit of silver ore has been found near Smithland, Ky.

For some time bad feeling has existed between the Berry and Tomlinson families near Bedford. Last week Davis Berry heard that Tomlinson was going to move to Owen county, and at once Berry sent Tomlinson word that before he left he would come to "do him up."

Tomlinson had moved all his household effects to the landing at Holderness, and Berry, according to promise, went to see him. Tomlinson was hiding in the willows, and as Berry approached within twelve steps, Tomlinson emptied both barrels of a shotgun at Berry, inflicting a mortal wound. Tomlinson made his escape.

Two Very Important Inventions Made by a British Peer.

Lord MASTHAM, says the New York Recorder, enjoys the distinction of having registered more patents than any man in England. As a youth he was left the rectory of Addington on condition that he should enter the church, but he declined. He then built a mill at Addington, and became a successful woolstapler by inventing the wool-combing machine. Wool had never until then been combed but by hand, so the saving of labor was immense. He spent a huge fortune in working out the invention to its success, and thousands of thousands of pounds were spent on it before he royalized it a peer.

In the crystal-clear air the great constellations glowed with unvignetted splendor; above, Orion blazed; the Hyades and Pleiades glittered like diamonds in the night's dark cloak; Canopus' brilliant star hung over the ocean; Cassiopeia shone like a virgin offering; Capella gleamed in her silver chair, while Gemini's twin beacons flared and flashed, says Scribner's Magazine.

Under a sky, from the terraces of the Alhambra, says King Ferdinand's astronomers watched those gleaming worlds in their ordered march through space, seeing in each planet a divine chorister in the infinite symphony and hearing faintly the prelude of the celestial harmonies centuries before it throbbed in Galileo's ears as he stood on the brown Tassoua tower among the olives.

Most precious of all these experiences is the remembrance of the hours spent in the study of the stars, and the time of evening prayer, when the stars, dimly behind the Libran chain and Mustapha's fire rose in pale-yellow flame against the violet water.

The mountain tops still glowed, the desert was ashes of roses, the high bank of gold, and darkly silhouetted against the golden wall, the ever-charming figures of the Egyptian pantomime—Cænephorae, on their stately march; Chloe, little and slender, drying her tears; Daphnis, herding his goats; Virgil, the husbandman of Theocritus; the lovers and nymphs of Anacreon passed before us in the glamor of the evening light, every low-browed profile outlined in sharpest relief against the glowing west.

BRUIN IN WINTER.

Enter a Hollow Tree and Remains There Till Spring.

The one-horse drogby is meant to hold two persons. Our experience, says a writer in Temple Bar, was that it held one and a bit. It is a common and an amusing sight to see some gallant officer in uniform mounted on a horse and a dragoon companion in one of these conveyances. His arm gets in the way so, however, and this is the only means of disposing of it that he can think of. The horses are first rate, small in size, but able to do a great deal of hard work, and keep their good looks in spite of it. Not a single horse or mule or carriage or sledges are stables, and are driven by Russia.

The driver, who is sometimes a boy, wears a dark blue dressing gown kind of coat, a curiously shaped hat, and high-topped boots, and makes quite a figure. The horses are not very strong, to be a very hot one for summer, but the average driver is too poor to buy cooler clothing. It is astonishing what an amount of heat Russians seem capable of bearing. Even on the hot days of August a passenger on a carriage or officers on a sledges hardly sweat.

There are no fixed fares for the drogby. Every time you hire one a long course of bargaining ensues between you and the driver, until at length the latter consents to take about half what you offer, and then you go on a long way, and on no occasion I get a fare for twopence. In the absence of an agreed fare the driver charges what he likes. Once we paid two rubles (four shillings) for a drive of a few hundred yards in a two-horse carriage.

FOGS ARE HEALTHFUL.

They Are Beneficial, with Sulphur, Wine, Water, &c.

John Aitken's theory of fog is gaining credence, says an exchange, and it is certainly one that has much to recommend it. There can be no question that it covers the ground better than any other.

Mr. Aitken attributes the production of mists, fog and rain to the presence of particles of solid matter in the atmosphere. Prof. Tyndall was the first to demonstrate how the atmosphere could be filtered and to show it in a completely dry state.

Mr. Aitken is of opinion that water vapor clings to and condenses on these particles, either bringing them down as rain or remaining suspended with them as mist or fog.

Chloride of sodium derived from the sea is the commonest sodium producer, but sulphur is the common base of town fog, and he suggests that it is well that it should be so because the sulphur has an antiseptic effect on the stagnant air and saves us from worse evils than fog.

This is good news, and if the theory broached be true, cannot be got rid of. There is no special cause of uneasiness as to the sulphur fogs, and on the whole they are blessings in thick disguise.

It is good news, too, to strain our senses a little so as to get rid of the dirty carbon it would be more cleanly and altogether better for us.

A MISLEADING TITLE.

Honestly Owned by a Man Who Would Dispose with It.

Speaking of military titles," said a general to a Boston reporter, "there is none in Massachusetts which would give a general credit to be rid of it."

He means, of course, the generalship which gave him a seat on the board of the Boston & Worcester Railroad.

He enjoyed the festivities at which members of the staff were always welcome, and, in fact, thought well of the whole arrangement. As years went on he began to like a little of the title, and when he went to Washington, as he left he would come to "do him up."

Tomlinson had moved all his household effects to the landing at Holderness, and Berry, according to promise, went to see him. Tomlinson was hiding in the willows, and as Berry approached within twelve steps, Tomlinson emptied both barrels of a shotgun at Berry, inflicting a mortal wound. Tomlinson made his escape.

THE TRIAL of the two men charged with the killing of Mr. Garrison is to begin on Monday next.

It is a case of great embarrassment to the defense, and the prosecution.

Anticipatory of Shaving.

Unlike the Romans of later age

the Egyptians did not consider the privilege of being shaved a free gift, but a privilege to be paid for, and the price was high.

The data are not exactly as authentic as one would like to have, but it is believed that the custom of shaving the beard was introduced in Egypt in the year 300 B. C.

According to Pliny, Pharaoh Amenophis was the first Roman who shaved daily.

MILITARY POST.

The Columbus, Ohio, Barracks
Will Be Remodeled.

Nice Quarters for Ten Companies to Be Provided.

This, However, Will Not Interfere With the Fort Thomas Improvements at Newport, Ky.—Work Will Be Commenced Immediately.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The Columbus barracks will be remodeled at the military post. It is now a military recruiting station. Representative Outhwaite has for a long time been working to secure this, and it is only within a day or two that his efforts have been successful. He has been in close touch with Mr. Outhwaite that orders have been issued for the improvement of the barracks so that ten companies of troops can be located there. Work is to be commenced immediately. Handicapped buildings are to be appropriated for the officers, and new barracks will be built. Everything is to be fixed up. The grounds are ample for all improvements which are to be made. At present recruits will be sent to Columbus from the service, but when the barracks are drilled and disciplined, and then assigned to the several arms of the service. Thirty thousand dollars will be immediately available for the contemplated changes. It is expected that about $250,000 will be required to defray the expense of these improvements. Several weeks ago Capt. Miller, of the quartermaster's department, was sent to Columbus, at Mr. Outhwaite's suggestion, to report upon the practicability of locating the barracks in the city. When these improvements are the result of his visit, Mr. Outhwaite, who is chairman of the house military affairs committee, was asked whether these improvements at the Columbus barracks would in any way interfere with the remodeling of Fort Thomas, Ky., a large military post, and he said that they would not, and that the plans for Fort Thomas would be completed as before contemplated. Recruit George Cox, who is confined at Columbus barracks under sentence of court-martial, will be discharged from the prison and the service.

MORTON WILL ACCEPT.

But Annoyances That He Will Not Make Any Scruple to Conserve the Nomination.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The Star says:

"For some time past rumors have been in active circulation which insisted that Mr. Morton would not, under any circumstances, allow his name to be used in connection with a renomination. Within the past two hours, however, Mr. Morton has given an interview to a friend, a political leader, that he would accept the honor if it is tendered him. He said the matter was beyond his control. The people should decide upon the candidate, and recognizing the people's right, he would not take any action. If the people wanted him, he said, he would go into the fight with all vigor, but he would not be a participant in any scruple for the nomination."

The Ohio Legislature.

COLUMBUS, April 7.—Bills passed: Section 65 by increase of pay of jurors; section 66 by increase of pay of judges; section 67 by increase of pay of state and county clerks per day. A law supplementing section 402 so as to permit children living one-half mile from the school where they are appointed to attend the nearest school.

A law extending the time for the removal of McMichael University, of Cleveland, from the state to a uniform month; an acknowledgement for conveyance of real estate; creating a firemen's fund in the city of Cincinnati; a law authorizing a $400,000 refund of natural gas indebtedness. A law.

Houses—Bills passed: Giving common pleas courts jurisdiction in cases in which persons are charged with concealed assets; providing for the incorporation of the state historical reference book of "Howe's Historical Collections of Ohio"; codifying the corporation laws of the state; a law relating to the probate of estates; a law relating to the uniform method of acknowledging for conveyance of real estate; creating a firemen's fund in the city of Cincinnati; a law authorizing a $400,000 refund of natural gas indebtedness.

Courts—Bills passed: A law concerning the second class third grade.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—For Tennessee and Kentucky—Increasing cloudiness and rain warmer in the west, stationary temperature in the east, variable winds. For West Virginia and Ohio—Generally fair, slightly warmer by Thursday night, variable winds. For Indiana—Fair, preceded by showers in extreme south portion; warmer, south winds. For Lower Michigan and Wisconsin—Generally fair, warmer, south winds.

For Pennsylvania and New Jersey—Fair, with a few showers.

Pans, April 7.—Another dynamic outrage was reported Wednesday, at Angers, a flourishing manufacturing city in the department of the Maine-et-Loire, and about 100 miles from Paris. A band of rebels outside the police station and the building was badly shattered. Two policemen and their compatriots were severely injured, and all their companions more or less shaken up.

The Price of Wire Nails.

CLEVELAND, O., April 7.—The wire nail manufacturers of the United States met here and unanimously adopted a new mail card, to take effect on April 11. The new card harmonizes a few inequalities that hitherto existed in the price of wire nails.

Harrison Going Slave Hunting.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—President Harrison is expected to be able to get away Thursday night for a day's snipe shooting in New Jersey.

Attorney Beggs Dead.

CINCINNATI, April 7.—John F. Beggs, who was charged with complicity in the murder of Dr. Crum, has been exonerated, is dead of pneumonia.

Dwelling and Grounds Renewed.

FARIBOROUGH, Eng., April 7.—The residence of Sir John Gage, who was totally destroyed by fire, near Cornwall, has been repaired.

All the contents were burned and nearly

BLEEDING AND MANGLED

On the Sidewalk at Charleston, W. Va.
Dr. J. J. Webster, an Eminent Methodist Minister of Baltimore, Believed to Have Sustained Injuries from the Third-Story Window of a Hotel.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 7.—A modest looking gentleman of good deportment arrived at Hotel Rufner from the neighboring town and begged to see Dr. J. Worthington, D. C. He was assigned to a room on the third floor, to which he went without delay. Nothing was seen or heard from him until about 7 o'clock p. m., when he rang for a servant, who, as the boy went into the room, the gentleman told him to bring him a cup of hot coffee, which was done without delay.

Nothing more was heard from or seen of the dead body was found on the pavement, thirty-five feet below, at the corner of the hotel and the street.

The coroner was notified and the body recovered. The neck, back of the head, one arm and several ribs were found broken. The room was examined and the body was removed to the office of Dr. Webster, 101½ Madison Avenue, Baltimore. Md., a pocket-book with the same name in it, a report for board and treatment, and a gold watch with initials were found in the pocket of the deceased.
